a Profession?

The Army Profession works with expert knowledge to assure the nation's security through land power; that expertise is the product of professionals' long work and study.

Because our expert work is vital to society – providing to society unique and necessary expertise – there is a trust between the profession and society.

That trust is earned by effectively and ethically applying military expertise on the American society's behalf, and by ensuring that members of the Army Profession

Trust

Trust – the bedrock of the relationship between the Army Profession and the American people – is vital to the profession. To succeed the profession sustains and develops trust:

-- Between Army professionals (Soldiers and Army Civilians)

- Between Leaders, Soldiers and Civilians

- Between Members, their Families and the Army

- Between the Army and the American people

Military Expertise

Military Expertise comprises that expert knowledge society depends upon but cannot provide for itself. ADP 1, The Army, recognizes four categories of expert knowledge:

- Military-Technical: how the Army applies landpower to accomplish the mission
- Moral-Ethical: how the Army accomplishes the mission in the right way
- Cultural-Political: how the Army understands and operates in a multi-cultural, complex world
- Human Development: how the Army recruits, develops, and inspires Army professionals

Honorable Service

Service to your Nation is an individual choice, to be part of something greater than yourself. Service to the Nation is not limited to a position you hold, an office you occupy, or an organization in which you are a member. Service to the Nation is a sense of belonging, an aspiration to help, a desire to make your community, town, state, or country better.

- General David M. Rodriquez

Esprit de Corps

The Soldier's heart, the Soldier's spirit, the Soldier's soul are everything. Unless the Soldier's soul sustains him, he cannot be relied on and will fail himself and his country in the end.

- General of the Army George C. Marshall

Stewardship

Stewardship of the Profession is the Army professional's commitment to preserving the value of the Army by making these essential characteristics effective elements of every day through their actions and by their moral upholding of the Army's earned trust.

Each professional Soldier "is a steward of the future of the Army Profession."

- General Martin E. Dempsey

What does it mean to be an Army professional?

An Army professional, uniformed or civilian:

- is an expert certified within the profession, consistently demonstrating competence, character, and commitment
- is bonded with comrades in a shared identity and culture of sacrifice and service to the Nation
- stewards the future of the Profession
- adheres to the Army's Ethic
